

Benefits and Coverages

What happens if my baggage is delayed for more than one day but not lost? Will I get some compensation?

Most insurance companies cover baggage delay if the baggage is delayed for more than 12 hours. Compensation is given for emergency items purchased like medicines, clothing and toiletries. You will have to provide receipts for the same. If your baggage is lost, then compensation is given for the market value of the items lost subject to coverage and limits specified in your policy.
